

arbitly

Privacy Policy

arbitly.io

This Privacy Policy regulates and discloses the rules and procedures for the collection, storage and use of personal and non-personal information about users (each of whom is a "User") of the Arbitly.io website("Website") or mobile app ("App"), and also corrects or modifies it. This privacy policy applies to the website and all products and services offered by "ARB SIGNALS LTD."

This policy does not apply to third parties, services or companies that we do not own, control or employ.

We give our users the maximum control over personal data in order to protect their privacy. However, we still have to use this information during our work in order to provide users with quality content and services.

Protecting the privacy of your data is an important part of our work. We accept this policy to ensure the security of your data. Our company complies with the law relating to the use, storage and transfer of personal data.

Personally Identifiable Information

We collect personal and non-personal information about our users in various ways, during such activities as: - Registration on the website - Website visits - Account transactions - Form-filling - Use of services - Content placement - Any other actions performed on our website

Users may also be asked to indicate their name, email address and other personal information. At the same time, users can visit our site anonymously without registering in the system. We collect personally identifiable information about users only if they voluntarily provide it to us by registering on our website and thereby agreeing to this policy.

The user can always refuse to provide his / her personally identifiable data by deleting his / her account from the site, but he / she will no longer be able to use the services available only to registered users.

Non-Personally Identifiable Information

Our service collects non-personally identifiable information about users when they interact with our website. Non-personally identifiable information may include:

- Browser type - Computer type - Technical information about users - Technical information about the means of interaction with our website - Users' operating system - Internet service providers - Users' system language - Users' time zone - Other pertinent information

Use of Cookies

Our site may use cookies from your web browser to enhance user experience. Your web browser stores cookies in your computer's memory. In your browser settings you can disable cookies or have your browser notify you before transferring these files to third parties. Please note that if you do not give access to cookies, the website may not work properly.

How We Use Data

Arbitly may collect and use users' personal data in order to: - Improve the website - Personalize user experience - Add new features - Process payments - Launch promotions, contests, surveys and other social events - Send information to users in different ways. Users' e-mail address can be used in order to: - To reply to users' requests or questions. - Inform about changes, updates, new products and services - Send notifications about new blog articles on the website - Inform about social events (promotions, contests, etc.) - Sending e-mails with content that may be interesting for users.

The user can at any time refuse e-newsletters, filling in the form that can be found in the company letter. Users will cease to receive e-newsletters, but will still be able to use the services of the company and receive requests and letters of technical content on their e-mail (operations notifications, confirmation of certain actions, etc.).

How We Protect Users' Information

In order to avoid unauthorized access, disclosure, destruction or alteration of your personal information, username, password, transaction information and any other data stored on our website, appropriate secure methods of data collection, storage, processing and use are applied.

The exchange of confidential data between the user and the site takes place through a secure SSL communication channel encrypted and protected by digital signatures. Our site also complies with PCI security standards and is as secure for use as possible.

How We Share Information

We never and under any circumstances sell, transfer into temporary possession or share users' personal information with third parties on purpose.

In exceptional cases, we may share non-personally identifiable information in aggregate form with our partners, advertisers and other trusted people. This information may not contain any data that can identify users or provide access to their account or personal data.

However, in cases where it is required to protect the company or other users' right or to comply with the legal process or judicial decision transferred to us, Arbitly is obliged, in accordance with the law, to transfer users' personal data to authorized third parties. Only then your personal information can be disclosed.

Personal Information Management

You have the right to delete, update or correct your account information in the available fields in the settings section of your personal account at any time.

However, due to legal requirements, we reserve the right to retain certain information for legal or business purposes. Personal information can also remain automatically cached or archived for some time.

Third Party

While using our website, users may encounter advertisements, links or any other content submitted by third parties. Our site is not responsible for content posted on our website by third parties.

Such content may contain malicious services or unreliable information. Since instant content moderation is not possible, our website cannot be responsible any harm caused to users by content, links or services placed by third parties.

This privacy policy also applies exclusively to the site Arbitly.io. Any other services and websites have their own policies that may differ from ours.

Children's Online Privacy Protection Act

According to the law, we never collect or store information on our website belonging to anyone who is under the age of 18. Our website and its contents are not intended to attract anyone who is under the age of 18. If we become aware that some of our website users is a minor, we will immediately delete all the available information connected to this user and restrict his or her access to our services.

Changes to This Privacy Policy

We reserve the right to unilaterally update this privacy policy at any time. The last modified date of this policy is on the document last page. The user is advised to check this date regularly and read all new versions of the policy. You acknowledge and agree that you are required to review this privacy policy periodically and be aware of changes.

Acceptance of Terms

Using this site, you agree to this policy and user agreement. If you do not agree with this policy, please do not use our website. Your continued use of the website after all the changes to this policy are published means that you accept these changes.

Contacts

support@arbitly.io